ANNOUNCEMENT OF ANTICIPATED POSITION OPENINGS

POSITION: Instructor, Biology/Microbiology
10 month, Tenure Track

ANTICIPATED
STARTING DATE: August 25, 2014

MINIMUM
QUALIFICATIONS: Masters' degree in the Biological Sciences or closely related field. A Ph.D. in Biology or Microbiology is preferred, along with at least two years of teaching experience at the college/university level including management of both lecture and lab components of biology courses. Proficiency using innovative modes of course delivery adaptable to a variety of learning styles is highly desirable.

Applicants who do not meet the minimum qualifications as stated, or who possess a Master's degree (or higher) in a related field, are encouraged to put in writing precisely how their background and experience have prepared them for the responsibilities of this position and by providing appropriate references.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Under the supervision of an Academic Division Director, faculty responsibilities include, but are not limited to, teaching full-time (12 contact/credit hours per semester) in the biological sciences at the Middletown and/or Meriden sites. The successful candidate must have demonstrated an interest in, and an aptitude for, teaching courses from the introductory through the advanced level in microbiology as well as other related areas such as genetics, parasitology, general biology, or biochemistry.

The successful candidate must be committed to adopting innovative instructional approaches along with current instructional techniques; integrating instructional technology; incorporating service learning in the curriculum; and, teaching in alternative educational environments. Faculty are expected to be involved on campus committees, active in student academic and career advising, and develop connections to foster closer ties between the college and the community. Additional responsibilities (20% of work load) include related curriculum/course development; continued professional development by maintaining membership in professional organizations and developing liaisons with colleagues in the field as well as those teaching in high school and four-year institutions of higher education; and, other service responsibilities related to a full-time faculty position in support of the mission of the college and the goals of the division.
